Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-42, drawn to a hand treatment agent dispenser, classified in class 222, subclass 175.
- II. Claims 43-47 and 84-87, drawn to a system for monitoring hand cleaning activity, classified in class 340, subclass 573.
- III. Claims 48 and 49, drawn to a method for monitoring personal usage of a hand sanitizing material, classified in class 141, subclass 2.
- IV. Claims 50-52, drawn to a method for monitoring personal usage of a hand sanitizing material, classified in class 141, subclass 2.
- V. Claims 53-71, drawn to a hand treatment agent dispenser, classified in class 222, subclass 175.
- VI. Claims 72-83 and 88-90, drawn to a system for monitoring hand cleaning activity, classified in class 340, subclass 573.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as being used in a system not requiring a dispenser identifier. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I, II and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus as claimed can be used in a process that doesn't require recording of date and time dispenser is released.

Inventions I, II and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus as claimed can be used in a process that doesn't require the collection of dispensers in a stack.

Inventions I and V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention V has separate utility such as being used in a system not requiring a unique identifier. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I and VI are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention Vi has separate utility such as being used in a system not requiring means for refilling. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions II, V and VI are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, inventions V and VI have separate utility such as being used in a system not requiring a signal processor. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions III and IV are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility such as being used in a system not requiring a unique dispenser identifier. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions III, IV and V are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus can be used in a process not requiring an authorized user identifier.

Inventions III, IV and VI are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus can be used in a process not requiring a quantity recording.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
